Events Overview

AssetOps is a new, highly focused event series for buy-side operations leaders who are driving the next wave of transformation in asset management. Launching in November 2025 with simultaneous digital editions in London and New York, AssetOps combines the accessibility of online gatherings with the connection and energy of in-person meetings—creating a year-round platform that empowers senior professionals to turn operational complexity into competitive advantage.

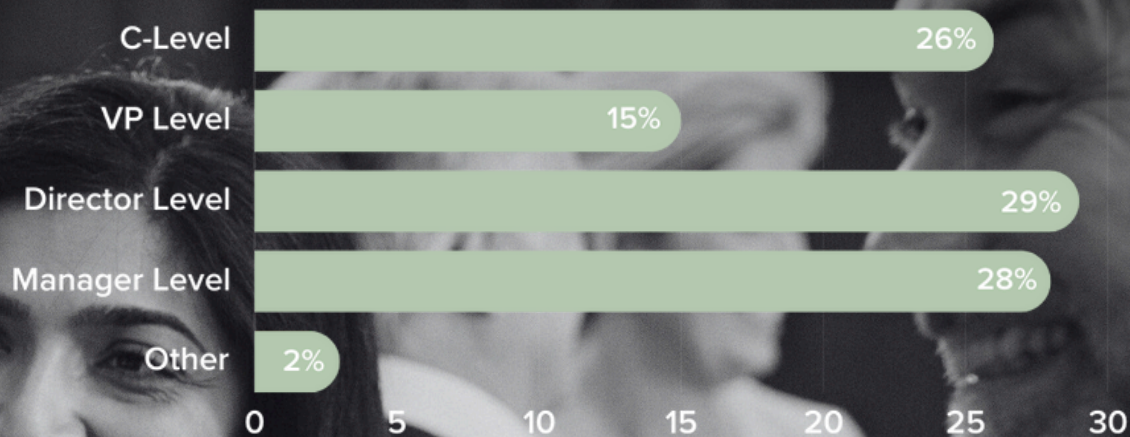

Unlike broader asset management conferences, AssetOps focuses exclusively on the operational core—data, technology, and transformation—delivering curated content and innovative formats tailored for COOs, Heads of Operations, CTOs, CDOs, and transformation leads.
